Even the School Law is published in violation Journal of Education, and from it we give it to our readers.

Had the poor contemptible simpletons let the law of the previous years alone, we should probably, by this time, have given all the laws of the session to our readers. They were then been the all absorbing topic of conversation the locofocos from power. They have already promptly published in the Columbus papers, among the literati of both worlds. But a question arises, whether the popularity of Mr. Lowest Bidder may not yet be extended. How would it do to put out our Legislating to the lowest bidder! We think a better Legislature than the last could be obreason why the "Big Bugs" should not come under the same rule that is applied to Mechanics. Nay, why should it stop there? Why not apply it to our Preachers. Lawyers, Doctors, and all who do business for the peopleschool masters included! Why not, when a man is about to get married, let out the job to the lowest bidder! And so in all the other affairs of life. In reference to the Legislature, it might be well to leave it to the County Auditor, Probate Judge, and Prosecuting Joinville and Mr. Williams. The former we Attorney to decide whether we shall have know to be a designing, ambitious man, well Representatives and Senators at all-and if so, what proportion of the time they might be allowed to be there.

We are sick and tired of such tem-foolery. We have racked our brain to find epithets suitable to express our contempt for the last Legislature. The English language does not furnish them, and we give it up in despair.
